Dear colleague,

knowmore is sad to announce that our long-standing CEO, Warren Strange, has decided to step down from the role at the end of July. Warren's calm leadership, clear vision, and unwavering commitment has positively impacted abuse survivors and community members across Australia. His genuine dedication to inclusion and engagement with our First Nations communities has been a particular highlight of his time with us.

Over the past decade under Warren's dedicated guidance, knowmore has grown from its earliest inception in both in size and impact, with offices across Australia increasing the access to justice for survivors and their families. We offer our deep appreciation and thanks to Warren and wish him the very best for whatever the future brings.

The Board has appointed Nick Hudson as Acting CEO to lead and support the team and provide continuity during the transition period. Nick has worked at knowmore as the Director, Strategic Engagement for the past four years and over that time has led knowmore's outreach and national engagement strategy.

The Board and Nick will work to ensure that knowmore workers, clients and stakeholders are supported and continue to receive high service delivery standards during the transition to new leadership. If you have any questions or concerns, please don't hesitate to reach out to Nick or myself.

Kind regards,

Michael Smith
Chairperson

knowmore acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the lands and waters across Australia upon which we live and work. We pay our deep respects to Elders past and present for their ongoing leadership and advocacy.
